DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claims are indefinite because of the following reasons:

- In claim 1, it is unclear that applicant labels his invention a “filter” in the preamble but fails to include any structure for filtering (e.g. a filter insert) in the body of the claim.
- Claims 2-5 are reject since they suffer the same defects as the claims from which they depend.

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 3-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claims contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventors, at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Applicant has amended his independent claim to limit such to the species shown in figures 1a-1c wherein the combination component includes a support dome. However, dependent claims 3-4 are geared to the species shown in figures 4a-4b wherein combination component includes a tubular sleeve forming a valve body. Claims 3-4 are rejected under 112, paragraph one, since applicant does not have support in the originally-filed application for a "hybrid" species, wherein the combination component includes BOTH the support dome and the tubular valve body.

Art Unit: 1723

FIG. 26

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(c) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 1-2 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by EPO 0,492,672-A2, hereinafter '672. As shown in his drawings, '672 teaches a filter housing including a filter base (231 and 233 are considered to be the filter base). The combination component includes a plate, an arched valve body (on the upstream side), a spring, a support dome (the ringed member extending into the center of the filter insert 201) as well as the wall portions connected to the plate. The valve seat is included as part of the filter base [as in claims 1-2]. Portions axially extending from the plate are for connecting to the filter elements [as in claim 5].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

8. Claims 3-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over '627 in view of GB 2,279,725, hereinafter '725. '725 teaches a tubular valve body 24 in a combination component. It is considered that it would have been obvious to one ordinarily skilled in the art at the time of the invention to have the tubular valve body of '725 as part of the combination component of '627, (e.g. to control flow between the inlet and outlet chambers) since '725 teaches the benefit of a creating a bypass flow to prevent damage to the filter.

Response to Arguments

9. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.
